WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

WHITE PLAINS.

The Westchester County Historical Society will hold its twenty-fifth annual meeting in the Court House this afternoon in commemoration of the 125th anniversary of the battle of White Plains. John C. Hamilton of Elmsford, will deliver the principal address. After the meeting dinner will be served at the Elberon Hotel.

SING SING.

Four officials of Sing Sing Prison were dismissed yesterday by order of the State Civil Service Commissioners. They are James McGann, guard; L. Connally, watchman; Charles McFarland, and Edward Carpenter, instructors. The men are Republicans and have been on the prison force for over a year. The majority of the officers and citizens employed at the prison are Democrats. In the last six months the officers of the prison have refused to receive the regular expenses of the prison in order to reduce the running expenses of the prison and keep within the prison appropriation for the fiscal year. The question is now raised as to who will be in charge of the prison force, either in this course, or if the officers are disposed to fight it is believed that there is no apparent doubt in the minds of the men that the law is ready to make every state and every officer so much pay per annum. There is no provision for taking the pay of officers away to make up a deficiency for which they were not accountable.

Mains, a well known clergyman of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a nephew of the Methodist Bishop. Dr. Strong and his bride are both graduates of Syracuse University, and their acquaintance began while they were students in that institution. STAYS IN A BURNING BUILDING AT THE BEDSIDE OF A SICK GIRL.

While flames were leaping the woodwork of the five story brick apartment house at No. 87 Brookville, and a dense smoke filled the house and the entire building seemed to be doomed at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. Sarah Sullivan, clad in her uniform and with her badge pinned on her breast, sat by the bedside of Miss Florence Fleckner, twenty-one years old, and cheered her. The girl has been near death for several days from a complication of diseases. To remove her meant death. Mrs. Sullivan knew this.

"Don't be afraid, dear," said Mrs. Sullivan, as she took the hand of the girl between her own and stroked it reassuringly. The smoke had filled the room, and the eyes of the sick girl had dimmed. "Look! Why don't you look at me?" said the matron. "I don't think they will stay here if that was the case, do you?" Now, deary, be calm." The rattle of the Fire Department, the shouts of the crowd, the crashing of the window glass, the falling of the second story window where the sick girl lay almost gave dental to these reassuring words.

The brave matron requested the sick girl until the roar of the fire which announced that the fire was out. The matron, who lived next door, ran to the girl's bedside as soon as the fire was discovered. She also compelled the girl's brother, Joseph, to stay in the room.
